Training in Nicosia

During the last week of April, we organized the 5-day training for pre-primary teachers, which was hosted in Nicosia by STANDOutEdu.

During the first three days we presented STEAMERS Compendium as well as 30 lesson plans for preschoolers that are related to STEAM.

The educators were highly involved and very keen to exchange ideas about how to incorporate STEAM in preschools.

During the last two days preschool teachers from 5 different countries were trained in STEAM activities that are suitable for pre-primary children.

The educators were involved in robotics, animation, embodied mathematics, science, technology, arts and engineering.

The teachers used real robots and coding, tried new online tools and did various hands-on workshops.

Of course, the host organisation arranged some cultural activities to explore beautiful Cyprus.

Project Results

The training was organized to carry out the final tests of the teaching scenarios/lesson plans that will be part of the Educational Curriculum and the e-learning platform, which will soon be available on our website.

We would also like to remind you that the STEAMERS Compendium was published some time ago and is available on our website.

The Compendium is a comprehensive report that will identify the training needs of pre-school teachers in terms of developing skills and key competencies to effectively deliver STEAM education with pre-school children and will also identify current trends in each partner country.
